

A "Straight Corridor" To the Dead Was Suicide Reason of DuBois Girls

Coroner's Jury Returned Verdict of "Suicide While of Unsound Minds"; Letters Made Public Today Over Protests.

MOTHER NOT TOLD

Mrs. Coert DuBois Kept Ignorant of Complete Details of Dual Deaths; Cremation Planned.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
Roomford, Eng., Feb. 25 (AP)—Elizabeth and Jane DuBois, who plunged from an airplane to death last week, visualized their suicides as a "pretty straight" corridor to the dead men they loved.

Coroner's jury today returned a verdict of "suicide while of unsound minds" after it had heard the contents of two letters which the girls had intended only for their father, Coert Du Bois, United States consul general in Naples, and their mother.

The father, tight-lipped and white-knuckled, attended the inquest. The mother stayed alone at a hotel, still unaware of the complete details of her daughters' plunge from a commercial transport ship.

Tell of Grief
In their letters, the two beautiful American girls told of their grief for the deaths of Flying Officer John A. C. Forbes and Flight Lieutenant Henry L. Beatty, who were killed at Messina, Sicily, two weeks ago when their Royal Air Force flying boat, "Ace of Diamonds," crashed into a hillside.

One of the notes said that Flying Officer Forbes, engaged to another girl, was going to break off his engagement in order to marry Jane.

The coroner said he only did his duty in reading the letters as without them it would have been difficult for the jury to arrive at a proper verdict.

The Only Course
"In time to come," he said, "I am sure the father will realize that reading these letters was the only course to be taken in the circumstances."

The jury retired only a few minutes before arriving at the verdict, which was worded in the usual phrases for suicide cases in England. The jury expressed sympathy to the parents and also to Pilot P. Kirton, of the plane from which the girls jumped, adding: "We admire the courage of the pilot in not losing his head in a most critical situation."

Gowen argued the letters should be submitted to the jury privately as Coert DuBois, father of the two young women, had hoped that their contents might not be made public. The father, Gowen said, wished later to read the communications quietly to his wife.

Each girl had written alternate paragraphs in the letters, one of which was addressed to the father and the other to the mother.

Letter to Father
The letter to DuBois, beginning "Darling Coert," read:
"We never explained things to you as we should. There's been so much doubt and worry. You've been kind to us and forgiven us and you'll forgive us this as you must feel a little of what we did when we heard of the flyingboat crashing up."

"Do you remember Charles (flying officer John A. C. Forbes, one of the two who died in a crash at Messina) talking about the corridors? The one before us seems pretty straight. Charles was engaged to another girl and he was going to break it off and we would have been married this summer probably. There never will be any one else for me."

"We heard of his death in Paris on Monday. We came on to London the next morning and came to the Ritz. We did not want to see anyone. Comfort mother with all your strength. I think she will feel as we do. Luck is with you now."

"BETTY AND JANE."

Letter to Mother
The second letter read:
"Mother Darling:
"Do not doubt that we are with you now and always and with great love. Please do not think that we have done anything wicked, for we were given proof that if there is a rule, an exception has been made for us."

"We went to St. Martin's-in-the-Field (a church at the corner of Trafalgar Square) because they were to pray for Charles and Dick during the service. They knew we had not been confirmed, but they let us take communion and be absolved from our sins."

"The lesson was the parable of the laborers in the vineyard. You must have known when you heard that the crash in Sicily would pull us over a line which has never been well enough defined for us."
"I think you knew that Charles and I were going to spend our lives together and I must keep my part of the bargain. We had spent the day loaded down with half-crowns (different pieces for the provincial) to drink to him. What is left in the bank is all Coert's."

Money To Unemployed
"If it is considered ours, it goes to the unemployed at Pembroke docks (from where the flyingboat 'Ace of Diamonds' jumped off for Messina) or for Royal Air Force widows. Our base was at Victoria station. Do you think George Peterson can be published? The Coroner explained."

Mobilization In Behalf Of Work Relief May Be Done To Push Bill

Wholesale Movement Foreseen Which Will Reduce Bonus Army to Aspect of "Boy Scout Parade"—Roosevelt Watches Reaction of the Nation to Senate 44-43 Vote Which Attacked Prevailing Wage Amendment—Unparalleled Social Unrest Will Follow Rejection, P. V. Betters Says.

Sabotage Blamed Today For Wreck of the Macon

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The opinion that sabotage was involved in the loss of the airships Akron and Macon was expressed today to the House patents committee by Roy W. Knabenshue, pioneer balloonist and manufacturer.

"If an investigation could be made of the structure and wreckage," he said, "I believe it would be found that sabotage had something to do with it, perhaps during the flight."

Asked by Chairman Sirovich (D., N. Y.) if he thought foreign governments might have had anything to do with that, Knabenshue replied "I hate to say."

Later he exonerated officers of the ships in connection with his suspicions, declaring he had "too high regard for the officers of the navy to think they would be involved in anything of the kind."

He declared it would be a grave mistake for this government not to continue to build these ships.

"I have lived on the Pacific coast and absorbed the idea of danger of attack that prevails out there. We are in danger of attack from some foreign source, and these airships are just as essential as battleships for protection."

President Roosevelt's Power Policies May Be Taken To The People

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The possibility of taking President Roosevelt's power policies to the people in what would amount to a national referendum was considered today by some administration advisers.

Under a plan suggested for possible use if the government's intention to sell electricity in the Tennessee valley is blocked by the Supreme court, the public's sentiment would be tested by submission of a constitutional amendment to the states.

The proposed amendment would be worded so that, if ratified by the necessary 36 states, it would stamp approval on the Roosevelt power program.

The amendment was one of several possibilities studied for use in event the government should lose finally the appeal it is preparing from a decision by Federal Judge W. I. Grubb of Alabama. He ruled last week that the Tennessee valley authority has no right to sell surplus electricity.

Another proposal given consideration by administration advisers was that a corporation financed largely by the government but not connected directly with it might be set up to carry out the President's plan.

Officials insisted, meanwhile, that they regarded Judge Grubb's ruling only as a temporary setback which would be overcome in the higher courts. Because the judge granted an injunction against PWA allotments for constructing municipal power plants to distribute TVA power, counsel for the public works administration has announced it will join in appealing the case.

Should the final judgment in this litigation go against the government, one power expert said, the proposal for a constitutional amendment and the suggested independent corporation might get out of federal control, it was said, and obtaining approval of 36 states to a constitutional amendment usually requires a long time.

He called TVA "the most profitable investment the American people have made in your day and mine" and referred to private power interests with the comment: "An old regime dies hard."

Speculation continued in the capital regarding the possible effect of Judge Grubb's decision on other links in the President's power program. Some suggested that the administration might not press for Senate approval of the proposed St. Lawrence waterway advocated by Mr. Roosevelt.

ed that this probably was a hook they had written.

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—Mobilization in behalf of work relief "that will make the bonus army look like a Boy Scout parade in comparison" was foreseen in one quarter today "if it becomes necessary" to secure passage of the administration's $4,880,000,000 bill.

Paul V. Betters, director of the United States conference of mayors, made the forecast in a formal statement as senate leaders marked time on the Roosevelt relief program with its unwanted McCarran prevailing wage amendment.

At his Hyde Park home, President Roosevelt watched silently for national reaction to the 44 to 43 senate vote which attacked the prevailing wage amendment against his wishes and forced Democratic leaders to return the bill to the appropriations committee.

There was some belief Mr. Roosevelt may, at a later date, ask the senate to reconsider the bill.

Betters said that "telling 3,500,000 workers they can not work, regardless of the reason, is to foment social unrest which will be unparalleled."

"When it is considered that three and a half million workers represent close to 15 million dependent family members now on federal relief, this congressional sentence is more severe and serious than any action taken by any government in the history of the world."

Meantime, this 74th congress, far more prone than its predecessor to debate and criticize administration measures, approached its third month with practically all the big controversies unsettled. The pace of legislation through committees was proving so slow that both houses had only relatively minor business to do today.

As administration leaders strove to reassert control after the defeat on the prevailing wage amendment, the capital wondered whether President Roosevelt would make another of his fire-side chats to the nation soon in behalf of his fight for "security wages."

Administration strategists, who had the $4,880,000,000 work and relief bill sent back to the committee after the McCarran amendment had been tacked on to it over White House opposition, watched today for what they hoped would be a tidal wave of telegrams and letters in behalf of the administration's plan of $50-a-month wages.

They indicated these protests already had begun to come in. They counted especially on states, counties and municipalities eager to get public works money. Their plan apparently was to keep the huge public works bill in committee a while to let the protests register with the McCarran supporters.

The American Federation of Labor, a leader in the drive for the McCarran amendment, gave no indication of any change in its announced intention to exert all the might it could muster in behalf of public works wages equaling those of private industry.

Chairman Glass (D., Va.) of the appropriations committee had yet to set a date for a meeting on the relief bill, though one was expected this week.

While the relief bill was held in committee Democratic chiefs prepared to receive a special message from the White House later in the week recommending merchant marine aid to supplant the existing mail contract system.

Fears Expressed Today Morgenthau and Farley For Missionary and Wife To Attend Albany Dinner In Chinese Province Week Promises Battles

Known Fact is That the Rev. S. C. Frencham, Australian, Was Captured by Bandits; Wife Is Missing.

TOLD TO GET RANSOM

Mrs. Frencham Was Reported Released So She Could Get Ransom Money For Husband.

Sian, Shensi, China, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Rev. Mr. S. C. Frencham, young Australian missionary, has been captured by bandits from his station at Ninkiang, southwest Shensi province. His young wife, a Londoner, has disappeared.

These were known facts tonight after days of uncertainty during which unconfirmed rumors have reached the China Inland Mission that both Mr. and Mrs. Frencham were murdered.

Communications with Ninkiang have broken down. From government reports, from countryside rumors, and from experience, the folk of the inland mission have obtained the following information:

They believe Mrs. Frencham, who had been married less than a year, was captured with her husband but was released and told to procure ransom to effect his release.

Reports indicate that he was captured at least two weeks ago when he was supposed to have been seen being led away from Ninkiang by the bandits.

It was feared that, although Mrs. Frencham is expecting a baby this month, she had attempted to reach Fehsiang, a ten-day journey on foot to the north.

Additional reports indicated that 13 missing missionaries had been located.

A group of five British missionaries, three women, two men, and two children, arrived at Fehsiang after a perilous journey through the snow from Hanchung in South Shensi. Eight more British of the same mission, four men and four women, with one child, escaped from South Shensi to Ankang in southeast Shensi, many miles down the Han river.

MARLBOROUGH BABY GAINS

IS WITHOUT ESOPHAGUS

Newburgh, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—Tiny Robert Earl Linsig, the baby without an esophagus, began his second week of life today with a three-ounce gain in weight.

Since his birth a week ago in St. Luke's Hospital here, the child has been fed through a tube inserted in his stomach. Encouraged by the gain in weight, Robert now weighs six pounds, physicians have doubled his rations.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Raymond Linsig of Marlborough, has been informed of his condition, hospital officials said, and is reconciled to the fact that he has only the barest chance to survive.

Physicians said it was a 10 per cent chance.

Greges' Condition Unchanged

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—Frank Greges, the former sandwich man whose mind is believed to have been deranged by his sudden acquisition of wealth, was reported unchanged today at the psychopathic ward of Bellevue hospital. Greges, who received rewards and was made a bank messenger after he found and returned $45,000 in securities some time ago, was committed to Bellevue on Saturday when he became irrationally in the Bowery hotel where he lived. He kept shouting he was God, and man living at the hotel dropped dead during Greges' raving.

The straightjacket in which Greges was laced was removed yesterday afternoon and he was allowed the freedom of the ward, but last night he became loud and boisterous and again confined.

Twins Found Today

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The eight-year-old twins, John and Margaret Miller, who were the objects of a frenzied all night search after they disappeared yesterday in Indian Creek swamp in nearby Maryland, were found early today on the Baltimore-Washington pike by a Maryland county policeman.

No Plans for Austria

London, Feb. 25 (AP)—Kurt Schuschnigg, Austrian chancellor, was quoted in the Daily Express as saying that Austria had no plans for a restoration of the Hapsburg monarchy.

Prediction Made That State Lawmakers Will Not Heed Lehman Demand To Touch Reapportionment This Session.

G. O. P. STATE GROUP

Executive Body of the Republican State Committee Will Hold a Meeting on Friday.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—Political storm clouds hung heavy over official Albany today as New York's legislators returned for the ninth week of the 1935 session still confronted with problems that appear destined to provoke bitter debate and possibly prolong adjournment beyond mid-March.

Reapportionment, pari-mutuel betting, ratification of the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution, unemployment insurance and compulsory automobile insurance form the major part of the controversial program still awaiting action.

In the meantime, capitol corridors will be thronged with political chieftains here for the annual dinner of the Legislative Correspondents Association on Thursday night and the meeting of the executive body of the Republican state committee on Friday.

Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Postmaster General James A. Farley and former Governor Alfred E. Smith will attend the correspondents' dinner.

Highly charged with political controversy, the problem of effecting proportional representation in Congress and legislation will be tossed into legislative laps when the committee headed by Senator John T. McCall, New York Democrat, makes its long awaited report, probably Friday.

Reaction to the group's findings will determine whether the session will adjourn by mid-March as scheduled or drag on for several more weeks.

Although Governor Herbert H. Lehman has insisted that the lawmakers do something about the long overdue reapportionment, it is possible they will not line up behind any proposal at the present session.

Indications are that the McCall committee will recommend that the Senate be increased from 51 to 52 members and that upstate senators five or six of its Assembly seats to New York city.

Democratic leaders are understood to have decided to permit a test vote in the Assembly on the resolution ratifying the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution, following Governor Lehman's assuming the role of personal director of the fight to place members on record on their attitude.

The amendment has been defeated in the Senate judiciary committee but is still reposing in the judiciary committee of the Lower House. One effort to bring it forth on the floor failed.

Bitter debate is expected tonight when the Senate moves to place an order of final passage the Twomey resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting.

Reports have been current that bookmakers, fearful that the machines will drive them out of business, have raised a $250,000 fund to fight passage of the measure. It was adopted by the 1934 legislature and must be reapproved before it can go to the voters next fall.

Courageous Child Dies After Saving 4 of Family

Cuba, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—The courage that enabled her to save four small brothers and sisters from death in a blazing farm house, today had cost 13-year-old Edith Layman her life.

Trapped on the second floor of their home early yesterday the girl, seared by flames, stood by a window and helped the youngsters to jump, one by one, to safety in the snow below.

On the verge of collapse in the fire, Edith somehow managed to crawl outside and drop to a drift below, but too late.

She died in Cuba Memorial Hospital last night as the others, ranging in age from four to 14 years, were being treated for burns about the face and hands.

Mrs. Leslie Layman, the mother, suffered burns on face, hands and feet in desperate efforts to reach the children.

Gales, Blasts, Quakes Raise Death Toll To More Than Score In World

4 Killed, 130 Injured In Mid-Western Storms

Kansas City, Feb. 25 (AP)—Hillzards, tornadoes and dust storms—a strange weather mixture—marked their passage with death in the midwest today.

Four persons were killed and more than 130 injured by storms which struck between the Mississippi and the Rockies.

Tornadoes ripped over a narrow triangular course from Wichita, Kas., to Commerce, Okla., and Joplin, Mo., last night, leaving damage estimated unofficially at more than $200,000.

Mrs. Ellen Teague, 63, was killed in a tornado which swept the mining communities of Commerce and Douthat, Okla.

Ruby Reiff, 16, Ordway, Colo., died with the overturning of her motor car in a highway sand drift.

Two women were killed in Chicago traffic accidents attributed to a wet, blinding snow.

Dust, snow, sleet and rain storms presented a baffling hodgepodge over western Kansas, eastern Colorado and the Panhandle country as a norther pushed rapidly toward the Texas Gulf coast.

NRA Names Special Board to Review The State of Textile Trade

By DONALD CAMERON
Associated Press Staff Writer
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—Confronted by growing discontent from both manufacturers and labor, the NRA has set up a special board to study conditions in the textile industry and determine the possibility of code revision.

While NRA has not said so officially, the action was reported to have been taken with the view of forestalling another textile strike, threatened early in the spring if labor's demands for wage concessions and more satisfactory code enforcement is not forthcoming.

Meanwhile, led by Governor Curley of Massachusetts, a group of New England manufacturers and state officials gathered here for a conference today with the New England congressional delegation. Objectives of the meeting included preparation of a program to limit imports of Japanese textiles, to eliminate or lighten the cotton processing tax, to remove sectional wage differentials and to standardize wages throughout the industry.

A bitter controversy was foreseen over the wage differentials, with northern interests demanding that southern mills pay be forced up to the northern level.

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts Republican, planned to introduce a bill in the house today, calling for reopening of the cotton textile code, and said its purpose was to open the way to standardization of wages.

"The southern mills already have natural advantages, through proximity to their raw material," she said, "and it is unfair to give them an added advantage in wage rates."

The NRA's decision to act swiftly in the textile situation was reached last week in the face of rumblings of new walkouts in textile centers. Serving on the special board are Division Administrator Prentiss Cooney, and Arthur D. Whiteside, Leon Henderson and Sidney Hillman of the national recovery board.

A preliminary report on the cotton industry is due tomorrow, with subsequent investigations to be made of the woolen and worsted, and silk industries.

"We have an acute situation here," Cooney said, in confirming creation of the special committee.

Leaders of the United Textile Workers maintained that continued peace in the textile industries depended on the outcome of hearings soon to be held by the NRA on recent reports by the bureau of labor statistics on wages and hours of mill workers and on a more satisfactory enforcement of decisions of the National Labor Relations board.

North Atlantic Shipping Lanes are Endangered Particularly by Mountainous Seas; Several Fishermen Swept Overboard.

SHIP 2 DAYS LATE

New York Reaches Port and Captain Describes Storm as One of Worst in Experience.

(By The Associated Press)
A howling gale that for three days has swept North Atlantic shipping lanes and battered the coast of France as it turned through the Bay of Biscay into the Mediterranean added today to its mounting toll of lost lives and disrupted shipping.

Earthquakes along the eastern Mediterranean shores and an explosion off the coast of Tunisia increased the list of dead.

Several fishermen were lost when they were washed overboard as the waves lashed their tiny craft in the Bay of Biscay. Ten were killed ashore in France as winds of gale force interrupted communications.

Eight were killed and five injured in earthquakes in Greece. Other earthquakes were reported at Malta and Cairo.

Four persons were reported killed and several injured when an explosion smashed the hold of the S. S. Gouverneur General Jonnart in the harbor of Tunis, Tunisia.

Two ships reported themselves in urgent need of assistance while dozens of others were endangered by the mountainous seas.

The Italian S. S. Caterina Madra, about 40 miles west of Ile d'Yeu, said that her propeller was gone and added "Dangerous situation. Save us."

The 2,932-ton Greek steamer Effthalia Vergottis called to help, saying her steering apparatus was disabled. She gave her position as latitude 46 north, longitude 3 west in the Bay of Biscay.

Another Italian steamer, the S. S. San Pietro, reported that she had repaired her damage but asked nearby ships to "come as near as possible" as "probably we will be broken again."

The S. S. Ottinge, without a rudder off Lands End, reported that she had been taken in tow.

The Belgian S. S. Syrie, bound from Antwerp to the Levant sent an S. O. S. asking immediate assistance; and the British S. S. San Melo, from Tuxpan to Tyne, reported that it had asked the American S. S. Liberty to stand by and was jettisoning the cargo.

The United States Shipping Board freighter Oakman reported she lost her rudder 700 miles north of the Azores, but was in no immediate danger. The S. S. Newport News was standing by.

The Greek Steamer Delphos, the Swedish steamer Delphinus and the British freighter Hillcroft added their messages to the steady stream of distress signals which flashed over the storm-lashed seas.

From the Pacific came word of an accident to the Japanese motor ship Matsuyama which left her helpless 250 miles west of Cape Flattery with disabled engines. A Coast Guard cutter was sent to her aid.

The Coast Guard ice cutter AB24 sank in Great South Bay off Long Island, New York, after ice floes punctured her hull. The crew escaped.

The Hamburg American liner New York reached New York two days late after battling what the captain described as one of the worst storms in his experience.

The French freighter Auvergne, which left on an SOS two days ago, was last reported to be still anchored at sea. The vessel's radio apparently had failed as she did not answer calls from coastal stations.

County Youth Council Representatives Back From Troy Conference

The Rev. J. Thoburn Legg, Burt Van Deusen, Roger Mable, Miss Lola Jump, Miss Mary Tinner, Wallace Buley, George Finger, William Williams, Henry S. Van Der Zee, and George Kerbert have returned to Kingston from Troy, where they represented the Ulster County Christian Youth Council at the 12th Annual New York State Conference of Youth.

The orientation of the conference was on Friday afternoon, when the conference leaders, numbering over a dozen, held an informal talk upon the large platform of the Second Presbyterian Church of Troy and gave an insight into what would be covered in their groups during the three day conference. Prof. Samuel L. Hamilton, director of religious education of New York University directed the assembled leaders, and drew from them excellent evidence of their knowledge of their subjects.

Professor Hamilton later lead a commission on "Personal Faith and Philosophy of Life," and encouraged the delegates to the task of "Building a Christian World" on Sunday afternoon.

Pleading with the youth delegates to take definite steps toward the dedication of their full lives to Christian principles, Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of the Christ Methodist Episcopal Church of New York city spoke on Friday evening. His talk entitled "We Envision a Christian World" emphasized particularly the necessity of "enlarging" our vision, and perhaps the dreams that youth always have, come true. In ringing tones, Dr. Sockman, pastor of Labor Temple (Presbyterian) of New York city denounced the present system of our country of "plowing under" when people are starving, of naval maneuvers in the Pacific at a time when the feeling of Japan are keenly edged, of unemployment, of spending of huge sums on militaristic budgets and piled with the youth present to dominate the entire situation with the principles of Christ that his topic "We Plan to Build a Christian World" might in reality come true.

Nine commission groups covering five subjects, "My Faith and Philosophy of Life," "To End War," "Helping to Solve the Liquor Problem," "Christian Economic System," "Building a Christian Home," were convened during the conference for a total of over five hours of intensive study upon them. Recommendations, resolutions, petitions were drawn up and signed by the delegates to be sent to various heads of the national and state government to give them an excellent idea of how the nearly 700 youth delegates present felt about the various subjects.

Two of the resolutions adopted at the forum group held at the local "Y" February 17, were adopted and signed at the conference, for submitting to President Roosevelt. The first, protesting against the proposed summer maneuvers in the Pacific this coming summer as unfair to Japan, and a second protesting against the huge suggested increases in the budget for the army and navy, were signed by several hundred of those present, and will be sent in to President Roosevelt. Also, these resolutions, together with two others will be sent to the various groups throughout the state, signed, and sent to Mr. Roosevelt in the hope that these things may be defeated, or at least deferred.

The huge ball room of the Hendrick Hudson Hotel barely held the group at their annual banquet on Saturday evening, the raised dais upon which sat the officers, speakers and head guests, the platform erected at one end of the room which held the other guests, head of the government of Troy, several of the pastors of Troy, and representatives of the various huge industries of Troy, all presented a splendid sight to the delegates as they assembled. The splendid program that had been arranged, favors of miniature collars, representing Troy's chief industry, music by the "Californians" and an excellent dinner all made the banquet one to be long remembered.

Sunday morning at the annual Youth Council meeting, the following officers were elected to serve during the coming year: Robert Redfern, Rochester, president;

Douglas Wheeler, Peekskill, vice president; Miss Dorothy Davis, Albany, secretary; Hubert Watson, Rome, treasurer; and Robert Brown, Buffalo, quarterly bulletin editor. The officers were installed later in the day.

Already an action commission has met with one representative from each county upon it to discuss ways and means of carrying the many vital suggestions of the conference into the program of youth council for the coming year, and has drawn up several tentative plans which will shortly be worked out and presented for action.

The conference was well planned, and the plans were well executed, the effects of such a meeting cannot help but be felt during the next year.

OVER 100,000 BIRTHDAY GREETINGS TO THE PRESIDENT

More than one hundred thousand people sent birthday greetings through Postal to President Roosevelt January 30, contributing 100,274 quarters for a total of $25,068.56 to the President's National Commission for Infantile Paralysis Research. It was announced today by the birthday greeting committee of which Clarence H. Mackay is chairman. This figure is subject to upward revision it was explained.

Ellen Wynkoop, manager of the Postal Telegraph this city, stated the accounting department of New York headquarters of this company was now breaking down the total figure into the different communities to enable the National Commission to refund 70 per cent of the amount collected for purposes of local infantile paralysis relief. In some cases donations exceed 25 cents, while in others notably by school children less than this amount was given. A final report will be made by the birthday greeting committee within the next few weeks. The entire amount collected by Postal Telegraph for signatures to the birthday greeting message to the President is being turned over without any deductions for infantile relief and research.

This unusual photograph shows an automobile racing near Scott City, Kansas, to escape one of the recent dust storms which swept the west, sucking up thousands of tons of rich top soil and damaging farm lands. ## Auto Collisions Over the Week-End

One automobile accident was reported to the police Saturday, two Sunday and one this morning.

Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, Edwin Porter of Liberty and Joseph B. Scully of 107 Newkirk avenue, driving the Chevrolet sedan of Louise Kieroff of 117 Newkirk avenue, collided at the intersection of Crown and John streets. Both cars were damaged. No one was reported injured.

Sunday morning at 1:35 Edmund J. Benkert, 22, of 204 Broadway, driving a Pontiac sedan, and John Reis of Grand View avenue, operating a Plymouth, had a collision at the intersection of Washington and Lucas avenues. Bernard Crispell, of Alcazar avenue, riding with Reis, suffered injury to two of his ribs.

Sunday at 11 a. m. George Smith of 23 Orchard street, a salesman for James Millard & Son, and Herbert Diamond, of Monticello, driving a Buick, collided on Hurley avenue while trying to make the turn in the highway near the Beatty farm. Slippery condition of the pavement was said to be the cause of the accident. Smith was injured about the knee and Gertrude Diamond, riding with Herbert Diamond, suffered bruises on the shoulder and arm.

This morning at 8:32, Charles V. Carl of 34 Hanratty street driving his Chevrolet sedan north of Hasbrouck avenue, collided with John Harris, of 92 Flatbush avenue, who was driving west out of Garden street in his Chevrolet sedan. Both cars were damaged.

Dawson's Escaped Injury

A Chrysler sedan, being driven toward Kingston by Morris Dawson of 474 First avenue, Newburgh, skidded on the icy pavement in front of the West Park rural school about 2:30 Sunday afternoon and turned over. Dawson was accompanied by his wife and father, all three managing to crawl out from the overturned car following the upset. No injuries were reported to Sergeant Lockhart, who investigated the accident.

The number of arrests for drunkenness in Charlotte, N. C., during 1934 was nearly double the total for 1933.

PETER DISCOVERS SNOWFLAKE

ROUGH BROTHER NORTH WIND hurried up one big cloud after another, and late in the afternoon white, feathery flakes came drifting down out of the sky. Peter Rabbit sat tight in the dear Old Briar Patch. All night he remained squatting just inside the entrance to an old hole Johnny Chuck's grandfather had dug a long time ago in the middle of the dear Old Briar

"Are You Going to Spend the Winter Here, Snowflake?" He Cried.

Patch. Some time before morning the snow stopped falling and then Rough Brother North Wind worked as hard to blow away the clouds as he had to bring them.

When Jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky he looked down on a world of white. It seemed as if every little snowflake twinkled back at every Jolly Little Sunbeam. It was all very lively and Peter Rabbit rejoiced as he scampered forth in quest of his breakfast. He started first for the weedy field where the day before he had found Doty the Tree Sparrow and Slaty the Junco. They were there before him, not seeming to mind the snow in the least and having the very best of good times, as they picked seeds from the tops of the weeds which showed above the snow.

At once Peter discovered that they were not alone. Quite as busy seeking seeds as were Doty and Slaty was a bird just a little bigger. The top of his head and back were a rusty brown and on his back were streaks of black. Back of each eye and on each shoulder was a little patch of this same rusty brown. The inner tail feathers were black, and the outer half of the long wing feathers were black. Otherwise he was dressed all in white. It was Snowflake and Snow Bunting. Peter knew him instantly. He knew that there is no other small bird who is so largely white. Peter had his usual question ready.

"Are you going to spend the winter here, Snowflake?" he cried.

Snowflake was so busy getting his breakfast that he did not reply at once. Peter noticed that instead of hopping he walked or ran. Presently he paused long enough to reply to Peter's question. "If the snow has come to stay all winter, perhaps I'll stay," said he. "I can't understand how folks can be contented where there is no snow and ice. You don't catch me going way down South. Why, when the nesting season comes around I follow Jack Frost clear up to where he spends the summer. I nest way up on the shore of the Polar Sea, but, of course, you don't know where that is, Peter Rabbit."

Peter confessed that he didn't.

Predicts Fulfillment.

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—Ruth St. Denis today presided over her society for spiritual arts more convinced than ever her hope for a dancing choir in every church will soon be realized. Her hope is supported by the success of her own appearance yesterday in the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church where, black-robed and with lips, finger-nails and toenails reddened, she offered her dance as an expression of spiritual worship. She danced on a platform draped with cloth of gold as two members of her society, to piano accompaniment, chanted the 121st Psalm. Following the dance, Miss St. Denis directed, with rhythmic movements of her body, the church members' singing of "Come, Thou Almighty King." The Rev. Edmund Melville Wylie, at whose invitation she danced, predicted Miss St. Denis's interpretative measures will some day play a vital part in church services.

The black widow spider is about half an inch long, a quarter inch wide, and coal black and shiny, with a red spot on her abdomen shaped like an hour glass.

Oleomargarine Known as

Margarine and Butterine

Oleomargarine is known also as margarine and butterine. It is an artificial substitute for butter, first manufactured in 1870, in France, by its inventor Mege-Mouries. It is made from oil obtained from beef fat, neutral lard, and cottonseed oil, with a little butter, cream, or milk added during the churning. In preparing the oil, the fat cut from beef cattle at the time of slaughter is washed, chilled, and steamed to purify it and separate the membrane. The stearine is allowed to crystallize out, and the oil is separated from it by pressing. Several grades of oil are made, depending on the source of the fat, and the treatment. Neutral lard, or neutral, as it is called, is made from the leaf and back fat of pigs.

In the production of oleomargarine, says the Indianapolis News, the oil and neutral are melted and mixed in definite proportions, the cottonseed oil being added to the mixture, the poorer grades containing larger amounts. Milk or butterfat (rarely melted butter or cream) is added to the mixture, which is then churned, salted, and worked. Stringent laws in the United States forbid the addition of coloring matter unless a heavy tax is paid on the product; but women have been found of evading the law by adding a fat which imparts the desired color. When properly made, oleomargarine is a wholesome and nutritious product.

Jessy Owl Great Hunter

Callie most, other owl, the snowy owl hunts both day and night. It is keen of sight and usually wary. Living as it does, in an open country, it is wary of approach. It is usually seen perched on a branch, fence post, haystack, or even downed building, and cannot be confused with any other bird. When it comes to street numbers it is likely to take a heavy toll of both song and game birds, as well as fish.

Seven Cases Before City Judge Today

City Judge Bernard A. Culliton had seven prisoners brought before him this morning and dealt with their cases as follows:

Peter Tornelli, 59, of 27 Mill street, arrested at 2:40 this morning on the Strand by Patrolman William Leonard for disorderly conduct, was fined $5.

Louis Marella, 21, of Glasco arrested by Lillian Ferraro Sunday for third degree assault, had his hearing adjourned until Thursday. He furnished $50 bail.

Frank Higgins, 29, of Brooklyn, arrested Saturday night near the Broadway Theatre by Officer William J. Reardon for vagrancy, was sent to jail until Tuesday morning when he will appear again for sentence.

Higgins was picked up on suspicion, after the police had been informed that the Broadway Theatre was in danger of being robbed. A check up revealed that he had only been released from the Catskill jail where he had served five days on a charge similar to the one for which Officer Reardon arrested him. A more thorough investigation will be made of his record before sentence is imposed.

William Hogan, 46, of Pittsfield, Mass., was sentenced to 10 days in jail for soliciting alms on Broadway and in stores along the street, Saturday night. He was arrested by Patrolman Wesley Cramer on complaint of a pedestrian.

George Leonard, 40, of 154 Washington avenue was given the alternative of paying $5 or serving five days in jail for public intoxication. He was arrested Saturday by Officer Joseph Fallon.

Allan Armstrong, the negro arrested by Sergeant Earl W. Schoonmaker of the New York Central police, Friday afternoon for trespassing in the north yard of the railroad, was sentenced to 20 days in jail.

Armstrong is one of a gang suspected of having stolen coal from the railroad cars. He had no coal with him when arrested but was near where Christopher Lindhurst, 18, of 19 Stephen street, was filling a bag.

Lindhurst was sentenced to 10 days in jail for petit larceny when arraigned before Judge Culliton, Saturday. He ran away when he saw Sergeant Schoonmaker, disobeying a command to halt. The sergeant and Patrolman Lenville Relyea arrested him at his home, Saturday morning.

Peter Robinson, a negro of 100 Gage street, brought in by the police on suspicion was dismissed after questioning. He was in the vicinity where Armstrong was arrested and it was believed that he might have been serving as a look-out.

Because of the wholesale theft of coal, the New York Central has ordered its police to conduct a strict drive on keeping trespassers out of the north yard and off all other railroad property.

It is said that a checkup has revealed that coal taken from the railroad was sold by the thieves for 40 cents a bag.

Auto Registration Shows An Increase

The registration of pleasure automobiles in Ulster county this year shows a slight increase over the registration of 1934, when at the close of business February 18, there were 11,576 licenses issued. This year for the same period the registration was 11,698. There is also an increase this year in the number of commercial licenses issued over that of 1934 for the same period. The figures quoted were obtained from the motor vehicle bureau on Fair street.

GET UP AT NIGHT?

THE kidneys are the scavengers and they work day and night in separating the poisons from the blood. A diuretic stimulant is often indicated and usually it is sufficient to relieve minor kidney irregularities. Read what Harry F. Reynolds of 60 Little Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., says: "At times my kidneys would disturb my rest at night. I would have to get up three or four times. I took Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and I had no further trouble with my kidneys." All druggists. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package of Anuric. Ask for our free booklet which describes Dr. Pierce's Invalid Hotel.—Advt.

For Mouths Sinus Trouble Distressed Her

From Druggist has a prescription that affords a healthy stimulant that aids nature to keep sinus drainage clear. This prescription, used by thousands, is known as SINUSITIC.

Used as directed in the upper nasal passages, it reduces symptoms of inflammation and gives relief from sinus trouble. It is a safe, effective remedy for sinus trouble.

Needless to say Sinusitric is a splendid clearing agent when sinusitis is diagnosed with certainty or if it is a chronic condition.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By Associated Press

Just Plain Possum
Chicago — Desk Sergt. Edward Davis of Englewood knows his animals.

So when policemen brought in a queer looking animal they had found on the street, he inhaled deeply and said:

"That's a marsupial of the didelphidae, of the kind commonly called didelphis Virginiana. It is arboreal, nocturnal, virtually invulnerable—and it's good to eat. In the language of the street, it's possum."

He plans to demonstrate the last thought, if no owner claims the creature.

A Fortune From Cattle
Dorchester, England — Farmer George Chell's cattle are getting extra-fine fodder these days—and why not?

While grazing the other day, the cattle kicked up a half dozen gold coins which started the farmer digging in his pasture. He unearthed more than a hundred coins dating back 300 years. The treasure, worth about $5,000, is believed to have been buried during the reign of the Stuarts.

What's In a Name?
Frederick, Md. — As Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cronise looked back on 62 years of happy married life today, they reflected association of names might have had something to do with it.

For many years after they were married in 1873, they lived at a place called "Harmony Grove."

Change of Mind
Chicago — An apparent change of mind has brought death to Richard Sterner, 49, of Des Plaines.

Witnesses said he crossed the tracks of the Chicago and Northwestern, spun around and started to return. He walked into a train.

Time For Everything
Chicago — There are times when a man may fight to keep his life savings, and times when Theodore Dominick, delicatessen owner, believes he should not.

Three shot gun robbers entered

Dominick's store, made him open his safe and turn over his savings of $2,000. Dominick complied without a word.

He told police his invalid wife was in the same room as the safe, and he feared a disturbance might prove fatal to her.

Butler Charges House Groups Squashed News

Philadelphia, Feb. 25 (AP).—General Smedley D. Butler says the House committee on un-American activities suppressed testimony in which he quoted Gerald P. McGuire, Wall Street agent, as inferring he (McGuire) was "in" with President Roosevelt.

The ex-Marine commander, in a speech last night, asserted that McGuire, mentioned by Butler in an alleged Fascist plot against the government, could "foretell" future events and that he was "on the inside."

Butler's speech, which was broadcast, was the third in which he attacked the House committee's handling of the investigation of the alleged plot and its subsequent report to Congress.

"Here is what McGuire told me," Butler said referring to a conversation last August, "and I told the committee:

"Oh, we are in with him (McGuire meant the President of the United States)—we are in with him all the time. We know what is going to happen."

"And that testimony was suppressed."

"McGuire told me, and I told the committee, the following: 'We might have an assistant President, somebody to take the blame; and if things don't work out, he can drop him. That is what he (President Roosevelt) was building up Hugh Johnson for. Hugh Johnson talked too much and got him into a hole, and he (again McGuire meant Mr. Roosevelt) is going to fire him in the next three or four weeks.'

"Well, on September 25, Hugh Johnson was out. That was just a little more than four weeks later."

"McGuire knew. Who told him?"

"And that testimony was suppressed by your committee."

Butler said that McGuire told him those involved in the alleged plot—which he said included formation of an "army" of 500,000 men—were against having the ex-Marine at its head, because he was "too radical."

"They are for Douglas MacArthur as the head of it," Butler said. McGuire told him, "MacArthur's term expires in November."

Broadway "stages" rumbled along behind some smart pairs and four-in-hands in 1931. ## CCC Camps Reclaimed 18,000 Acres of Forest

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP).—With the establishment of CCC Camps in New York state during the last two years, approximately 18,000 acres have been reforested, several thousand acres of burned areas replanted, and numerous fish and game projects benefited, according to a report today by Conservation Commissioner Lighthow Osborne.

The great bulk of the field activities of the Civilian Conservation Corps in this state has been directed toward the protection of forests from fire, insects and disease; the improvement of reforestation areas by thinning out undesirable trees, and the creation of more favorable conditions for wild animals, birds and fish, the commissioner revealed.

The work of forest fire control is held by the commissioner, to be perhaps, the outstanding contribution to forestry.

Approximately 200 miles of truck trails have been built to facilitate rapid movement of fire-fighting equipment into areas endangered by fires, and over 600 acres have been cleared of dead and down timber along public highways and foot trails.

More than 400 miles of fire breaks have been constructed along highways and in the vicinity of forest plantations scattered throughout the state, the report showed. Six new look-out towers have been erected to increase the efficiency of the forest fire control organization.

Commissioner Osborne said in the report that recreational development has been advanced at least five years. The work, he pointed out, includes development of camp sites, construction of foot trails, bridle paths, dams and administration buildings.

More than 100 miles of foot trails have been built throughout the Adirondack and Catskill Mountains, and approximately 20 miles of bridle paths constructed in the vicinity of Lake Placid and Tongue Mountain.

Presently Chris slowed in his mad galloping, darted quickly to the right and into a patch of dead grass.

I came up on him rapidly, saw that he was crouched, moving cautiously ahead with belly almost to the ground, perceived that the wagging of his tail was suddenly stilled, that the dog himself had stopped, frozen into a point.

I spoke to him quietly, came up behind him, and there was suddenly the whirr of wings, and a covey of quail rose into the air and flung themselves against the sun.

The double-gun leaped to my shoulder; there was the report of it, and a bird came tumbling down and over end.

First kill of the day! First man, too! Orion grinned and nodded. "Good work," he said. "The sun was in your eye. Them birds is knowin' critters."

We hunted till noon: roused on the banks of Little Brook itself to eat our lunch.

There were three quail and a grouse in my pockets. It had been a glorious hunt; the thrill of it was still in my blood. I looked at Orion.

"I'd think you'd still like to hunt, carry a gun, anyway. Might bring down a bird."

Orion wagged his head.

"Get birds fed up on killing them birds," he admitted, with a hint of guilt in his tone.

"They're knowin' critters. Sort o' like to know they're around. Be kinda knowin' too. Guess you won't kill 'em all."

"Well, I won't kill them all as you, Orion. I said childing."

"Leave a few for company."

"Sure," the old man agreed.

"Sure. You do all the shootin' you're a mind to. Guess you won't kill 'em all."

That afternoon seemed an another summer. On the day following I shot a brace of quail, and on the third day added a squirrel to my score.

But the week was going fast, and the hunting seemed not so good as Orion had promised.

I was anxious to do some pheasant shooting, and spoke to Orion about the matter.

RED FEATHER

By R. H. WILKINSON

G. Wall Syndicate.—WNU Service.

EVERY fall during the past ten years I have been driving up to Orion Oldway's place in Littlebrook to spend a week gunning for upland game.

Orion is a friend of long standing. He lives on a farm, alone, the place is a mile or two out of the village, and there are no habitations nearby.

The bounds of Orion's farm are widely extended, and there is considerable cover for birds.

The hunting is good, and Orion is a congenial companion. And he serves equally well as a guide, for during the summer months he acquaints himself with the feeding grounds of the birds which the law permits us to kill, and there is no delay in finding the largest coveys.

Orion is now an old man.

Two years ago he laid aside his gun and said he would hunt no more, complaining that his sight was poor and his hand trembled. Yet he still accompanies me on my expeditions into the woods, and seems to share my delight in the business.

This fall I arrived as usual at Orion's place on the eve of the opening day, and spent a pleasant evening with the old man before his open fire.

With me as usual was Chris, my English setter, a well-broken and well-educated bird dog, companion of many a hunt, a true and loyal friend.

It was cozy sitting there in the tiny living room.

The fire burned cheerily and gave off a welcoming warmth; the night outside had a bite in it.

Chris lay full length on the hearth, stirring now and then with fitful dreams.

Orion and I swapped yarns of former days, and I questioned him regarding the prospects of tomorrow's hunt.

"You'll not be disappointed," he told me. "There's plenty of partridge about, and a flock or two of quail. And there's pheasant, too."

He was silent a moment.

"Yep, there's pheasant. They're a tame lot, them birds. Been coming up to the dooryard and eatin' with the hens. Up to a month ago, that is. Seems like they know when it's nearin' time for the law to come off. There's one big cock, especially. Old Red Feather. I call him. He's tamer than the rest. Most eats out of my hand. Biggest pheasant I ever see."

"I'd like to get a crack at him," I grinned. "Pheasants are scarce this year, in most places."

Orion was up ahead of me the next morning.

He had bacon and eggs on frying and coffee boiling when I came into the kitchen.

Chris was there, too, rapping his tail on the floor, looking at me with glad eagerness in his eyes.

We were on our way within a half hour's time.

The morning was beautiful with a bracing quality in the air, a sharpness that sent the blood tingling through your veins.

Orion led the way down the cart path behind the barn, presently turning off and cutting across a frost-white field.

The sun had burned its way through the early morning clouds; red lacres from it streamed across the fields, transforming the frost-locked world into a fairyland of dancing crystals.

Chris ranged and quartered ahead of us, joyful for the liberty that was his. I filed my lungs with that biting air, and was glad to be a part of it all.

Presently Chris slowed in his mad galloping, darted quickly to the right and into a patch of dead grass.

I came up on him rapidly, saw that he was crouched, moving cautiously ahead with belly almost to the ground, perceived that the wagging of his tail was suddenly stilled, that the dog himself had stopped, frozen into a point.

I spoke to him quietly, came up behind him, and there was suddenly the whirr of wings, and a covey of quail rose into the air and flung themselves against the sun.

"They're knowin' critters. Sort o' like to know they're around. Be kinda knowin' too. Guess you won't kill 'em all."

"Well, I won't kill them all as you, Orion. I said childing."

"Sure. You do all the shootin' you're a mind to. Guess you won't kill 'em all."

That afternoon seemed an another summer. On the day following I shot a brace of quail, and on the third day added a squirrel to my score.

But the week was going fast, and the hunting seemed not so good as Orion had promised.

I was anxious to do some pheasant shooting, and spoke to Orion about the matter.

"Why, sure," he said. "Sure thing. We'll go after them pheasant tomorrow and get some, too."

"Maybe," I smiled. "You can get me a shot at old Red Feather. Say, I'd like to bring back a big fellow like that."

And so, on the next day, Orion took us down to the pheasant covey, and it wasn't long before Chris had struck a trail and pointed.

A pair of birds broke from the thick underbrush and I swung on the cock and brought him down.

"Good work," Orion applauded.

"Good shootin'!" Orion applauded.

"Should have got 'em both," I said ruefully.

Orion had marked down the second bird and we turned in that direction, but failed to flush him again.

Nor did I get another shot on that day or the next, and was somewhat disappointed.

Orion seemed aggrieved that the gunning had proved poorer than he anticipated; promised that on the last day he'd take me to a spot he knew where birds were sure to be.

And surprisingly enough he did this. Before noon on that day I had added three more quail and another partridge to my kill.

We started home about mid-afternoon. I was satisfied with the day's work but still had in mind to bring down another pheasant.

We were passing then over the crest of the hill. To the right of us I saw a swale that seemed to hold good promise, and turned that way with a view of sending Chris inside of it, myself skirting the edge where the walking was less difficult.

But Orion, sensing my purpose, made hasty protest. "There's nothing there," he said. "Feed's played out! you'll find no birds down there."

I glanced at him doubtfully, would have followed along over the hill, taking heed of his words, had not Chris suddenly frozen to a point on the very edge of this swale, in plain view.

"Look there!" I said, and started hurriedly down the hill.

Orion followed close on my heels; we came upon the dog together, and I spoke a low command and waited.

Chris lifted a forefoot and set it down as if treading on eggs. He repeated the movement, and suddenly there was a roar.

A huge cock pheasant rose above the swale, fighting with madly beating wings to gain speed and altitude. It was a perfect shot.

The double gun leaped to my shoulder. And in the moment I would have pressed the trigger something startled my arm and the shot went wild.

The pheasant soared out of range before I could regain my balance.

It was Orion. He had fallen against me. There was on his face a rueful expression.

"Sho," he said. "Sho, I'm right sorry, about that. I mista tripped. You'd o' got that bird. Big one he was, too."

I saw his look of dismay, and my flash of anger cooled.

"Forget it," I said. "I'd probably have missed anyhow."

And then suddenly a thought flashed into my mind. "Say," I asked, "was that old Red Feather?"

Orion nodded and turned away, and started up the hill. And after a moment I followed, grinning behind his back, remembering his remark that day as we lunched by the brook: "You do all the shootin' you're a mind to. Guess you won't kill 'em all." And I wondered, too, if the gunning was really as poor this fall on Orion's farm as it appeared to be.

C. OF C. JOINS FIGHT AGAINST INCOME TAX SLIPS

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP).—Immediate repeal of the law requiring publication of income tax returns was sought by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today with the assertion that such publicity would encourage crime.

"The information to be made public will disclose business and private affairs to competitors and will be used improperly in connection with securing credit ratings, locating prospects, for satisfying mere personal curiosity and for racketeering," said a statement issued by the chamber.

"Publicity will encourage crime, as the data will be a prolific source of information for those plotting kidnapping or other crimes."

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1538-B

Small Child's Summer
Frock with Panties

Children's clothes for summer are full of ideas, this year. They are refreshingly new in character, and most of them reflect themes prevailing in adult fashions. Emphasis, for instance, is placed on dropped shoulder seams, puffed sleeves, high necklines and skirts with feminine flares.

A charming illustration of the present trend is seen in the frock pictured. If you have little girls to sew for, it is an excellent design, besides being a very simple one to make. The entire outfit—which includes panties—is made from nine pattern pieces. Mothers preferring a long sleeve will find one enclosed in the pattern. For immediate wear, before warm weather sets in, a puffed, wrist-length version is greatly liked.

Most frocks for little children have matching panties. The ones that go with this dress are cut bias, and made in one piece, with an elastic run through a casing at the waist.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1538-B is designed in sizes 2, 4, and 6 years. Size 4 requires (short sleeves, contrasting collar and panties, bias.) 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material; 1/4 yard contrast.

Tomorrow: Chic daytime frock for matron.

One of The Old Songs

London—The debate about the origin of the song, "The Man on the Flying Trapezoid" may as well end right now. The song is 50 years old, no less.

A music shop here has on display an original copy of the song as written and sung by George Leithbrun, an English comedian, in 1885.

Fort-six states, the District of Columbia and eight foreign countries were represented by at least one bride or bridegroom in marriage licenses issued in Reno during 1934.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Jean Arthur left Hollywood after playing leads in silent pictures and a few early talkies. She went on the stage.

Then she came back to Hollywood. When she returned doesn't matter any more than how many films she made. If any, before she appeared opposite Edward G. Robinson in "The Whole Town's Talking." The whole town of Hollywood will date her return from this new picture.

In the silent Jean Arthur was usually the wide-eyed ingenue; she used to want to play other parts, but they never gave them to her. She came back to make a hit in a type of role that nobody would have "seen" her in before. She is the breezy, frank, and far-from-backward "suppressed desire" of Arthur Ferguson Jones, the faithful, timorous clerk which Robinson portrays in the film.

No Western Queen Now

No fan who remembers Miss Arthur as the windblown heroine of sundry Richard Dix westerns and other outdoor films, or as any of the misses she played in other Paramount pictures, will believe that her stage experience had nothing to do with the new personality she reveals. It would seem to bear out the value of stage training even more than the repeated statements to that effect from producers and directors. At any rate, no studios were fighting over Jean Arthur when she left. After "The Whole Town's Talking," Columbia went to court to make her fulfill contracts, because another studio wanted her.

Ed G. Also Shines

What the picture does for Miss Arthur, however, is little compared to what it will do for Edward G. Robinson. For some time the chunky star of "Little Caesar," "Smart Money" and other hits had been admittedly riding on the stairway of fame. His recent pictures had been nothing to cause any box-office delirium or make his studio giddy about its stellar property. In "The Whole Town's Talking" Robinson plays two roles. He is the clerk, and he is the tough gangster (shade of Little Caesar) who looks exactly like the clerk. What the resemblances does to poor Jones—and to the gangster—motivates the comedy, and Robinson's performances are especially notable because of the two distinct personalities he projects.

Favorite

PATTERN 5317

Be ready to greet that first robin in a properly springlike bonnet. And if you want to make a smart impression, choose this off-the-face crocheted hat, designed by Alice Brooks. Fashion has decreed brims so this one is crocheted in a ribbed effect that makes it look like straw. The crown has a slight tendency to become a bonnet—just enough to be alluring. Guimpe, that is so popular now for hats and purses, is the thing to use, for it has just the right stiffness to make this brim turn up real perky. You can trim it with two pom-poms in contrasting colors or some other ornament. The envelope purse is enhanced by the crocheted rope that trims it. In detail, it matches the hat, the body of it being ribbed while the narrow flap is plain.

In pattern 5317 you will find complete instructions for making the set shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Smart for spring—
the cape coat with a touch of fur.
Liana Merwin

Little capes that cover the shoulders and extend to the waist are the most favored shades; the styling is sleek and smart, attention in the new season models and are seen not only as accessories to coats, but with suit ensembles and cape dresses as well—which assuredly predicts that many smartly dressed women will be wearing capes this spring.

In the sketch above is shown a cleverly styled coat with its chic fur-trimmed cape, which may be removed on warmer days, the coat being smartly tailored and sufficient unto itself when worn without the cape. This model is fashioned of waffle woolen in beige color—one of the most favored shades; the styling is sleek and smart, attention in the new season models and are seen not only as accessories to coats, but with suit ensembles and cape dresses as well—which assuredly predicts that many smartly dressed women will be wearing capes this spring.

In Kidnap Scare

Despite a stern warning set for kidnapers by the Hauptmann jury, new kidnap threats have cropped up—against Miss Dorothy L. Mayne, 21, (above), St. Louis society woman, daughter, and Eugene G. Grace, (below) president of Bethlehem Steel. Police said $25,000 was sought in the Mayne case and $250,000 in Grace's. (Associated Press Photos)

Can't Smell
This Cabbage

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 25.—A strain of cabbage that "won't smell up the house" is announced by Professor C. H. Myers of the department of plant breeding at Cornell University as one of fifteen new strains developed.

The non-smelling type is a selection from a well known old European variety called the Early Savoy, and some persons claim that when it is cooked in the kitchen the odor can not be detected in the front parlor. It is also said to be a little more easily digested than other varieties. Other good points of this strain include a reasonably uniform head shape and well-ripened foliage.

Among the fifteen new varieties, eight are classed as "table varieties," including the Early Savoy. Two are new strains of red cabbage obtained by crossing and selecting varieties. The heads run from three to four pounds in weight, they have little waste to the core, and have good quality either cooked or uncooked.

The main cabbage acreage of New York state, however, is divided between the growing of Danish varieties or winter types of cabbage, and kraut varieties. These two types, the Cornell scientist says, are the important ones for the state, responsible for the bulk of the seed business.

"We are," he states, "making special efforts to get the best of the new strains of cabbage to the general public, and several organizations engaged in selling seed are cooperating."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—Flicker financial markets flirited with both the bulls and bears today, with the latter apparently prevailing the most.

Shares of Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Water Works, North American and American Telephone advanced fractionally. Eastman Kodak got up a point and Loew's firmed. At the same time losers of fractions to around a point included U. S. Steel Common and Preferred, Bethlehem Common and Preferred, Case, First National Stores, American Beet Sugar, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, South Porto Rico Sugar, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. A point gain was registered by U. S. Smelting and United Fruit. Many stocks were virtually unchanged.

Commercial Solvents declared an extra 25-cent dividend, but the shares of the company were not responsive. Higher operating costs were reflected in the 1934 earnings report of Consolidated Gas which disclosed $2.18 per share for the common stock against $2.31 in the previous year. Fourth quarter profit was equivalent to 59 cents a share compared with 71 cents in the corresponding 1933 period.

Report as Discussed
Bethlehem Steel, Feb. 25 (AP)—The department of justice announced today an alleged plot to kidnap Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Company, for a ransom of $25,000. Agents of the United States investigation division reported that the plot was a "job of work" while one federal officer said he was convinced the matter amounted to a "just getting off steam."

Gangster Information
May Lead to Capture Of Paltz Bank Robbers

As a result of information given by Leonard Scarnici, doomed gangster, has given in a last desperate effort to escape the electric chair, five suspected members of a band of bank robbers, who may have been in on the New Paltz and Sparkill jobs, are now in the hands of federal authorities.

Twice saved from walking "the last mile" at Sing Sing Prison for the murder of Detective James A. Stevens during the holdup of the Rensselaer County Bank and Trust Company two years ago, Scarnici has thrown himself at the mercy of Governor Lehman to win a commutation by helping federal and state officials to solve a long series of crimes, states the Knickerbocker Press of Albany.

This was borne out yesterday when it was learned that District Attorney George Dorey of Rockland county has begun a spectacular cleanup of crimes which he said "rivaled the outrages of John Dillinger and Pretty Boy Floyd" in Southern New York state and New Jersey.

Scarnici's alleged successor on Scarnici's tips from the death house, it became known, federal agents have seized Harry Shaw in New City, Rockland county, within the last few days as the alleged successor to the Westchester bandit's title and leadership of the mob.

A woman with flaming red hair, booked as "Babe" White and described as the sweetheart of one member of the bank looting band, also is under arrest. She was captured in a New York city hotel.

With the arrest of these two, the agents also revealed they had in custody three other suspected remnants of the Scarnici mob which made its dual headquarters in Mount Kisco and the Bronx. They were named as Benjamin Lieberman, Hannah Weintraub and George Burger.

This gang is reputed to have stolen almost $100,000 from New York and New Jersey banks, mostly in small towns, in the last two months. The exact role the federal agents have played in the roundup has not been told and as far as Mr. Dorey is concerned he told the Associated Press last night at Nyack that he never was informed that Scarnici had made a death house confession leading to the five arrests.

Speaking for himself and his staff, Mr. Dorey was emphatic in saying: "We were not near Scarnici."

The importance of the arrests was seen in the demand of $100,000 bail for Lieberman when he was arraigned in New City. On charges of being material witnesses in the robbery of the Sparkill National Bank, the Weintraub woman and Burger were held in $50,000 and $25,000 bail, respectively.

2 To Be Arraigned Today
Shaw and "Babe" White will be arraigned today.

Meanwhile federal agents are continuing their investigations in the hope they will connect the Sparkill bank raid, when machine gunners netted $18,000, with robberies at New Paltz and in Garfield and Lyndhurst, N. J.

INTERESTING LECTURE
AT MARLBOROUGH CHURCH

Milton, Feb. 25.—Members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Milton Presbyterian Church attended the missionary meeting in the Marlborough Presbyterian Church last Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. James H. Nicol, missionary in Syria, gave a very interesting talk on the world's great seaports in a country called "The Cross Roads of the World." The great seaports in the world are now on a furlough from their work in Beirut, Syria. All of the shifting and colorful life of the eastern Mediterranean area centers in Beirut, Mr. Nicol's experience in the Near East has been wide.

During the world war which broke out while he was home on furlough, he attempted to get back at Athens. He was a member of the Red Cross forces organized to follow General Allenby and he served in Palestine and Syria with the Red Cross and Near East Relief. To him is due the organization of the Red Cross forces in Syria in the period immediately before the armistice. Naked, starving little children were lying in the streets, the people living in the Lebanon mountains were particularly destitute of clothes. Work shops were opened in every district, clinics were established, children gathered into shelters and bread lines formed for immediate relief. Later with the Near East Relief, Mr. Nicol continued as managing director of the Syria Aleppo district until this work was successfully well organized until he could give his whole time to the needs of the mission in such desperate case after four years of war and isolation.

Times are more peaceful now but Mr. Nicol's life is no less busy. His administrative ability has put him in positions of wide responsibility and influence. As secretary of the Syria Mission he has been responsible for all dealings with the government. During his seven years as chairman of the Near East Christian Council he has been a leader in Christian progress in the whole eastern Mediterranean area. Membership on many mission committees, chairmanship of the group working to remedy vice conditions in the swarming seaports, teaching in the School of Religious Workers and many other tasks which Mr. Nicol writes make up a busy happy life, which he would not wish to exchange for any other.

Operated Upon
Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (AP)—Operated on for acute appendicitis, Leonard Scarnici, a gangster, was reported today to be resting comfortably at the California Lutheran Hospital. The aches became ill a week ago and the operation was performed yesterday.

Spirit of Man From Ape
Essential turning points in the evolution of man from lower animals were outlined in recent lectures in London by the distinguished anthropologist, Prof. G. Elliot Smith, who quoted some of his material from a book by Dr. S. Zuckerman, of the London Zoological society.

One step in human evolution was when the whole group of animals now including the ape, monkey, lemur and man separated from the rest of the insect-eating, tree-living animals by abandoning the habit of a fixed breeding season at one time of the year in favor of ability to breed at any time.

It is funny a man will go to a fortune teller to hear the truth about himself, the very thing his wife has been telling him for years.

Woman—Men are such liars about ages.
Neighbor—Why, what do you mean?
Woman—Well, when a woman tells them she is 25 they say: "Why, you don't look that old."

Some Superstitious Don'ts
Don't walk under a bridge.
Don't walk under a falling safe.
Don't lead a funeral procession.
Don't turn your umbrella inside out.
Don't get out of bed at the wrong hour.
Don't throw soup over your left shoulder.
Don't put on your shirt upside down, boys.
Don't look in a mirror until it breaks, girls.
Don't look at the old moon over your right foot.

They say it requires twice as many muscles to make a frown as it does to make a smile and it looks as if too many people were always trying to develop their muscles.

Woman (dancing with a local man the other evening)—Are you from Alaska?
Man—No; what made you think so?
Woman—Just wondered! You dance as if you had on snow shoes.

It is pretty tough to do what you have to do to get your picture in print and then have your name spelt wrong.

Instructor (roughly)—Say, who ever said you were a bugler?
Rookie (timidly)—I am afraid there has been a slight misunderstanding. I told the man who signed me up I used to be a bugler.

The fellow who first hung a derby that over the end of a cornet was the first man to find out where it looks best.

Little Boy—Dad, did Moses suffer from indigestion?
Dyspeptic Daddy—I'm sure I don't know.

Boy—Well, I think he must have had it, for our teacher told us at Sunday school last Sunday that God gave him two tablets.

Correct this sentence: "You couldn't make those people speak ill of me, for I helped them when they were in trouble."

Hotel Proprietor—I'm very sorry, ladies and gentlemen, to have to announce that the fare this evening may not be up to our usual standard. Our French chef has met with an accident.

Guest—We are sorry to hear that. How did it happen?
Proprietor—He cut his finger opening a can.

A lot of people are like the turkeygobbler, or in other words they are only half as big as they look.

Mistress—I hope she didn't suffer.
Mary—Oh, no, ma'am. She ate the canary and the parrot.

"Who," asks a writer, "is really the forgotten man?" but why bring that up at this late date?

They aren't too old to spank if they aren't too old to need it.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

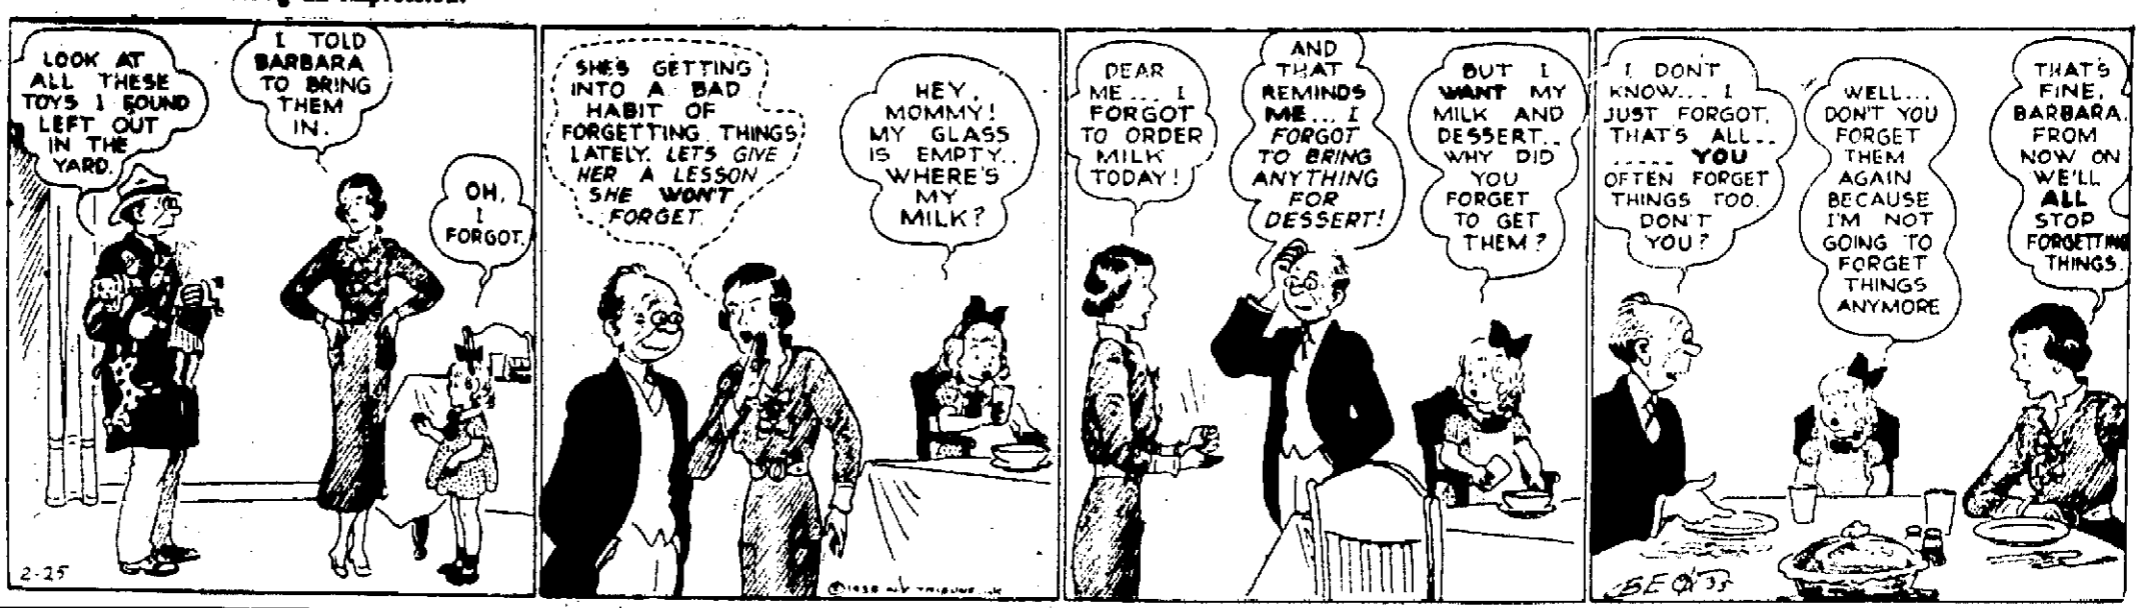

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisons stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is slowly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexion are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Anniversary Rally Held by Boy Scouts Was Well Attended

The annual anniversary week rally of the Boy Scouts of Ulster county was held at the armory on North Manor avenue Saturday afternoon and night, although the most unfavorable weather that prevailed all day made traveling on the county roads dangerous, especially during the forenoon, and kept many Scouts at home.

Despite the resultant small attendance the exhibits shown were by far the best ever seen at an Ulster county rally and the contests and demonstrations staged by those Scouts who had ventured to make the trip to Kingston were interesting and well carried out.

Judges of the exhibits, of which there were 12 in all, were Roger H. Loughran, Howard R. St. John and Joseph Craig. With the exception of the first place, the judges had considerable difficulty in arriving at their decision.

"Safety Village" Wins

First place went to the "safety village" exhibit shown by Troop 26 of Port Ewen. This was a model of Port Ewen, 10 by 15 feet, showing the main buildings, churches, etc., with two electric trains in operation and appropriate safety signs in place about the streets. The troop had been working hard on this exhibit since last fall, and the result was a great credit to the boys and their leader, the Rev. Philip Goertz.

Ellenville 2nd Place

Troop 28 of Ellenville took second place with a miniature camp. Third place went to Troop 6 of Kingston, who had a merit badge and basket making exhibit. Troops 7 and 3 of Kingston were tied for fourth place with anklings and knot boards and handicraft exhibit. Troop 5 of Kingston took fifth place, showing knot boards and handicraft. There were also exhibits, all of them interesting, by Troops 9, 11, 12 of Kingston, 22 of Accord, 23 and 27 of Ellenville and 39 of Saugerties.

The Sea Scout patrol of Troop 12, Kingston, had a very interesting exhibit, which was placed in a class by itself and given honorable mention. It showed the deck of a ship, with life boat in place, a wheel and real mariner's compass in position, full equipment of lights, bells, etc., all true to life.

Judges' Awards

As usual there was keen interest in the various contests and competition was lively. The judges were S. C. Hancock, Jansen Fowler, Henry Osterhout, Gus Modjeska and E. J. Luedtke. They awarded places as follows:

Kat and Shoe Relay. Troop 23, Ellenville, first; Troop 6, Kingston, second; Troop 30, Highland, third. Stretcher Race. Saugerties, 36, first; Kingston, 11, second; Kingston, 12, third. Obstacle Relay. Saugerties, 36, first; Kingston, 12, second; Kingston, 7, third. Wall Scaling. Kingston, 12, first;

Highland, 30, second; Kingston, 6, third. String burning. Ellenville, 23, first; Ellenville, 28, second; Highland, 19, third. Bow and Drill Fire. Kingston, 12, first; Kingston, 6, second. Water Boiling. Ellenville, 23, first; Ellenville, 28, second; Woodstock, 31, third. Flint and Steel Fire. Kingston troops took all three places, the winners in order being troops 6, 11 and 12. In the Tuk of War final honors went to Troop 20, Highland.

Demonstrations Given

A number of demonstrations were given, following which all sang the Star Spangled Banner and the sounding of taps brought the exercises of the evening to a close.

In commenting this morning on the fact that once more an attempt to hold a county-wide rally during the treacherous weather that prevailed during February had met with the discouragement that has been experienced at other times, so far as attendance was concerned, Scout Executive Wright suggested that in future rallies during anniversary week would be confined to district meetings, and the county-wide rally held later when there could be some hope that favorable weather and travel conditions might be looked for.

Highland

Highland, Feb. 25.—Scoutmaster Ball and his troop attended the scout meeting in Kingston Saturday evening. The following boys were ready to take part in the various contests: Fire by flint and steel, Richard Haynes; water boiling contest, Francis Rheel, Carl Schneider; string burning contest, Frank LaFolce, Fred Swift; wall scaling, Roeliff Du Bois, Richard Martin, Fred Swift, Francis Rheel, William Dapp, Frank LaFolce, Philip Messina, Carl Schneider; hat and shoe relay, Fred Swift, Sam Castellano, Robert Coutant, John Salvatore, George Lane; obstacle race, Robert Coutant, Francis Rheel, Fred Swift, Frank LaFolce, William Dapp, George Lane; stretcher race, Carmine Passanti, Robert Callahan, Frank Passanti; tug-of-war, Elwood Slicker, William Dapp, Harold Lyons, Sam Castellano, Francis Rheel, Philip DiStasi, Salvatore Marone, Philip Messina.

High School News

"Big Hearted Herbert"

On Tuesday evening, March 5, at 8:15 o'clock in the Kingston High School auditorium the curtain will go up on the second performance of "Big Hearted Herbert."

Since the senior play of February 15 the public comment has been so favorable that it is felt that it warrants a repetition. The same cast and the same production staff will produce the play. This second performance will offer an opportunity for those unable to attend the previous staging to see the play and for those who did see it an opportunity having learned the story, to review it. Tickets will be sold at a nominal price and no seats will be reserved.

MARKET FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—The following quotations represent prices on sales by commission merchants and other original receivers on the New York city downtown wholesale district this morning up to 8 a. m.

Old crop white potato supplies at most terminals in New York city and Brooklyn were liberal. Trading was moderate and the market was generally dull. New York upstate round white potatoes U. S. No. 1 in 100 lb. sacks jobbed out at mostly 85c for the best. Long Island Green Mountain potatoes U. S. No. 1 in similar size packages brought $1.05-$1.19 for south side offerings and 90c-$1.09 for north side stock. Main shipments ranged from 85c-95c, rarely higher. New crop Florida potatoes Red Bliss U. S. No. 1 in bushel crates commanded $1.65-$1.75 for the best.

Apple supplies from this state were moderate as was the demand, and the market ruled steady. Baldwin apples N. Y. U. S. grade No. 1, 2 1/2 inch realized $1.65-$1.75 per box or bushel basket, 2 1/2 inch $1.50. McIntosh No. 1, 2 1/2 inch $2.00-$2.25, occasionally higher. Sacked consignments of 50 lbs. Danish white best sold mainly around $1.00, occasionally as high as $1.10 and red $1.25-$1.50 for the best. New crop cabbage advanced in price in a stronger market. Supplies were moderate. Florida white realized $2.25-$3.25, principally $2.75-$3.00 per six peck hamper and red $2.00-$3.00, occasionally around $2.50.

Bassoon Is Called "The Clown of the Orchestra"

The bassoon is an instrument of great antiquity. Its name suggests an instrument taking the bass part, and that is exactly what it does. In Italian its name is "fagotto," which means "stick" in English. Now it is easy to see how this instrument came by its name, for it really resembles a bundle of five sticks, which, when fitted together, form a wooden tube about eight feet long.

The tube is doubled back upon itself, the shorter joint extending about two-thirds of the length of the longer part, whereby the height of the instrument is reduced to about four feet. A curved brass tube which ends in a double reed mouthpiece is attached. The tones produced by the bassoon are often warm and mellow, but sometimes they are so comical as to have earned the name "the clown of the orchestra" for this instrument, notes a writer in the Washington Post.

Rapid passages on the bassoon sound best in its natural key of G or closely related keys. Trills are practicable, though not on every note. In general the tone-color of the bassoon is so striking that the composer need only write passages of straightforward character for it, without making it do technical tricks.

The bassoon has been a favorite with nearly all the great masters. Beethoven uses it largely in his symphonies, writing everywhere for it independent parts of great originality. Where Beethoven used the bassoon in rather grotesque fashion, Mendelssohn handled it more daintily. The latter composer gave the bassoon many bits of inimitable humor in his "Midsummer Night's Dream" music.

Some Games Are Too Old to Be Traced to Source

The origin of games is lost in antiquity and some which are still played are too old to be traced to their source. Herodotus tells us, says Tit-Bits Magazine, that most of them were invented by the Lydians as a palliative at a time of acute famine which lasted 18 years. The Lydians decided to play games one day and eat on the next. They claimed to be the inventors of many popular Greek games, including knuckle-bones, ball and dice.

During the excavation of the palace of Minos in Crete an ornate backgammon board was discovered. The Greeks played a game called axyz, which was adopted by the Romans and became the Twelve-Line game, and survives today as backgammon. Subsequently Roman officials frowned upon games involving dice because they led to heavy gambling.

Chess is reputed to be of Indian origin, and it must be the game which has been played longest without any alteration of rules, since casting was introduced in the Sixteenth century.

McKinley Sunday School Man

The late President William McKinley attended a school managed by Presbyterian and Methodist clergymen. When but twenty-four he was chosen superintendent of the Sunday school. How deep-seated was his religious instinct was made manifest when, at Buffalo, September 6, 1901, he was mortally wounded by an assassin. "It is God's way," he said. "His will, not ours, be done," John Hay declared. "President McKinley showed the world how a Christian gentleman should live and how a Christian could die."

Grand Ribbon Decoration

A Grand Ribbon is simply a decoration of honor conferred upon a citizen of the United States by a foreign government or foreign ruler. The Department of State says that any decoration of this kind may not be received by any person holding an office of profit or trust under the United States as provided in a section of the Constitution. When such honor is conferred by a foreign government it is held by the Department of State for the recipient until such time as he may give up his position.

Old-Time Conveyance

Not many years ago on the plains of Argentina, the gauchos, or cowboys, used a unique method of conveying their wives to and from town. The lady would sit on a dried horsehide while the gentleman, mounted on his horse, would drag it along the ground by a long rope tied to his saddle. All she had to do was to hang on tight when going over the bumps and keep from choking on the dust stirred up by the horse.—Collier's Weekly.

Manchuria's Currency Confusion

Manchuria has suffered more from currency confusion than almost any other country. Up to a few years ago, the paper money and coins that circulated there were issued not only by states, banks and foreign governments, but also by armchair money changers, chambers of commerce, grain mills, distilleries, produce exchanges, retail stores and even private individuals.—Collier's Weekly.

Where Columbus Met Isabella

It was in the hall of ambassadors, in the Alhambra, in Granada, Spain, that Columbus held his first audience with Queen Isabella before he set sail for the New World. Today, high up on the side of the Alpujarras mountains, the famous Alhambra of the Thirteenth century looks down upon a peaceful countryside.

Legionnaires Vs Buffalo Wednesday; Rose Bowl Lions In The Preliminary

The second game of the State League play-off championship series with the Buffalo Bisons will be played Wednesday at the Municipal Auditorium. The preliminary brings to Kingston the Rose Bowl Lions, members of the Columbia University Football squad, who will make their debut on the local court. Due to the cooperation between Sammy Maroon and Bill Fuller, the former a Kingston boy on the Columbia football squad and the latter the manager of the Fuller Clermonts, this game has been made possible. The Columbia boys are strictly amateurs and are coming here just for the fun of it. They will be entertained here by the Maroon brothers, Sammy and Hebeby, and by the Fuller management. They will come up here Wednesday afternoon and stay at the "Y" after the game. They will return to New York Thursday morning. According to advice from Sammy Maroon, their lineup will be:

Ed Brominski and Joe Ferraro, forwards, co-captains of the Columbia football squad in 1934; Al Barabas, center, next year's captain; Al Clampa and Ed Furey, guards. All-American candidates.

The reserves will be John Hudasky, next year's halfback; Andy Chekovich, next year's center; Dave Ryan, an end on next year's team and also a first class track man, and the Maroon brothers, Sammy and Hebeby. Sam's arm has been oiled by the doctor and he states he will get into the fray at some stage of it.

The Rose Bowl Lions will have as their opponents the Fuller Clermonts, who are making a fine reputation in local semi-pro circles. The Clermonts' points will be greatly strengthened by the addition of two or three players and the Lions will get plenty of competition.

Bisons Are Hot

Sam Siegel and his Buffalo Bisons are imbued with a spirit that they want to win the State League championship. They managed to eke out a 31-29 victory over the Morgenweckers in the first of the series and being one down at this time, the Kingston Buffs will be in there to win. The Buffalo aggregation has been greatly strengthened by the addition of several fast men, particularly a young lad by the name of Snyder. This boy is only 19 years old but has been cutting a wide swath in western New York basketball circles.

Mrg. Morgenweck is dissatisfied with the kind of ball his club has been playing and is doing plenty of cracking down. The Kingston manager has called a practice session for today and it is going to be a tough one. Losing at Schenectady Saturday upset Mergie to the extent that he couldn't sleep nor eat Sunday. However, with the boys taking over the Clintons in Yonkers last night, helped appease his wrath. He wanted that game in Yonkers last night for it was the Legionnaires' first chance in the Metropolitan area. The booking managers in that section now know the Legionnaires are a real ball club, for the Clintons had been beating everything in sight around there.

Tomorrow night, the Legionnaires travel to Ellenville for a contest with the Napanoch Guards at Norbury Hall. This will be a tough one on the locals for they will be playing a fast club and will also be at a disadvantage in the low-ceiling hall.

Roger Baer and his orchestra will furnish the music for dancing after the games on Wednesday night.

Reserved seats for Wednesday night's game are now on sale at the Legion. Student tickets are on sale there and will also be available through New Belcher at the High School. No student ticket will be sold at the Box Office on Wednesday night.

The Legionnaires have a tough schedule this week: Tuesday, Ellenville; Wednesday, home, against the Buffalo Bisons in the league championship series; Thursday night, St. Peter's Alumni at Columbus Institute, Poughkeepsie; Friday night at Young's Million-dollar Pier, Atlantic City, against the Atlantic City Sandpipers, leaders of the Eastern league, and Sunday night, the third game of the Buffalo series in Buffalo.

West Hurley Y. C. C. Trims The Shamrocks

In a hard fought battle on the Woodstock court the West Hurley Y. C. C. boys won over the 7th Ward Shamrocks by 26-21. Nussbaum was the mainstay on the West Hurley attack with 13 points. Zeesh of the losers also garnered 13 to tie for high honors. Jensen and Saxe were outstanding on the defense for the winners.

In the preliminary game the West Hurley Y. C. C. Juniors lost out to the Kingston Flashes by 27-20. The losers counted high for the Kingston Flashes with 17 points. Rooney started for the losers with nine.

Sets New Record

Glenn Cunningham, the great Kansas runner, sliced seconds from his own 1500-meter record at the National A. A. U. track and field championships in New York, racing home ahead of Bill Bonthron by a comfortable margin for a new world's indoor record of 3 minutes 50.5 seconds. He is shown above finishing the race. (Associated Press Photo)

I.C.4-A Track Meet at Garden Next Saturday

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—The record-breaking feats of Glenn Cunningham, Jesse Owens and company in the National A. A. U. faded into the background today as eastern athletes looked forward to the I. C. 4-A championships, where the team's the thing.

There will be no such wholesale fracturing of world indoor standards as there was in the A. A. U. championships last week but for color and excitement the intercollegiate athletes outdo all other indoor fixtures. Saturday's renewal in Madison Square Garden should be no exception.

The team crown—the main goal—usually goes to the best balanced array, though not always. Yale won it one year mainly by a clean sweep in the pole vault and strength in other field events. This time the experts figure Manhattan, defending champion; Harvard, Cornell, Yale and Columbia as the principal contenders. They point to New York University or Pittsburgh as the possible surprise packages though it would take a series of astounding upsets to bring the Panthers home in front.

Of last week's world record-breakers in the nationals, only one, Henry Dreyer of Rhode Island state, will compete in the intercollegiate. He will try to better his new standard of 55 feet 3 3/4 inches in the 55-pound weight throw. Defending titles along with Dreyer will be Sam Maniac of Columbia in the 50-meter sprint; Walter Merwin of Cornell in the 1600 meters and 3200 meters.

AZUCAR TAKES RICH SANTA ANITA HANDICAP

Azucar, onetime steeplechaser, pounds home ahead of 20 of turfdom's blueblood favorites to win the Santa Anita handicap in California and take $108,400 in prize money. Ladyman was second and Time Supply third. Inset shows Jockey George Woolf, who rode the winner, receiving congratulations and a wreath from Anita Baldwin. Azucar's master is F. M. Alger Jr., Detroit. (Associated Press Photos)

Azucar, The Winner At Santa Anita, Will Campaign In The East

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (AP)—Turf followers of the east who think it was another case of the luck of the Irish when Erin-bred Azucar won the richest individual purse of all time by aking the Santa Anita handicap may have a chance to find out for themselves.

For Fred M. Alger, Jr., Detroit owner of the revamped jumper which took $108,400 in stakes from the classic, today started formulating plans for campaigning the 7-year old gelding in the midwest and east next summer.

Then, in 1936, if everything goes well, he'll return to his first love, competing in the Grand National Steeple-Chase at Aintree, England. But first of all, "Sugar"—Azucar is the Spanish name—will move up to Bay Meadows to compete in the $50,000 spring handicap there March 23.

How Azucar got his name, Alger doesn't know. The Chestnut charger was christened by his former owner, Joseph E. Widener, who knocked him off to Alger for $8,000 last year.

Azucar proved a sound investment. Since he was purchased six months ago the gelding has earned no less than $128,900. Of this amount, $8,000 was won in steeplechase victories before Alger suddenly became aware his bargain perhaps was a greater runner on the flat.

The horse earned $112,650 in the 53 days of racing at Santa Anita Park.

His time of 2 minutes—as the electrical cameraman caught him—was little short of being a sensation. In a cumbersome field of 20 starters.

It was two seconds slower than the world's record.

What happened to Equipoise, the heavy posttime favorite, may never be completely answered. Raymond (Sonny) Workman, his pilot, said he "simply wouldn't run."

While Equipoise passed up a golden opportunity of becoming the leading money winner of all time, he still can make the grade in the Bay Meadows $50,000 event.

SILVER WINGS DEFEAT PORT EWEN WINGS

Friday night at the port Ewen Reformed Church court the Silver Wings defeated the Port Ewen Wings in a closely contested battle. Leading the attack for the Silver Wings was Vince Cahill with 8 points, and Murray with 7. The Silver Wings held the lead at the half, 11-9, as they did throughout the game. De Witt's stellar defensive game saved the Silver Wings from defeat in the last few minutes from an attack led by Schuman of the Port Eweners. This week the Silver Wings will try for their 7th win out of 11 starts when they play Woodstock.

Ruth's Ambition To Pilot Yankees Puts Joe McCarthy "On The Spot"

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

New York, Feb. 25 (AP)—The trouble with trying to solve the celebrated case of Babe Ruth's future in baseball is that it's more embarrassing than it's mysterious to the principal parties concerned.

Whether the one-time home run monarch signs with the Yankees for 1935, as a player or merely as an ornamental, there scarcely can be any real show-down before the closing of the coming American League season.

The babe's fondest ambition is that he can stay in New York and eventually manage the Yankees. Since he hardly can be given any assurances on that score, for the time being, he would jump at the chance to pilot any other big league club that would give him something substantial to work with. The possibility exists, of course, that developments will open up a managerial prospect for Ruth during the season.

Meanwhile the man "on the spot" will be Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the Buffalo Irishman, whose fat contract as manager of the Yankees runs out this year. "Marsie" Joe took charge of the club in 1931 after a bust-up with the Wriglers in Chicago.

He piloted the Yankees to an American League pennant in 1932 and had the satisfaction of beating the Cubs four straight in the World Series. He was rewarded with a three-year renewal of his contract at a salary reported to be $35,000 annually. Since then the club has run second to Washington, and Detroit.

As everyone knows, however, Colonel Jacob Ruppert loves a winner, not a runner-up. The Yankee owner never has spared the checkbook in helping his managers to produce one or more. Nor has he ever hampered his team leaders, otherwise.

His support of the late Miller Huggins was unwavering at such times as "Hug" had run-ins with Ruth or was the target of critics. McCarthy has had similar backing and he will have it this year. Ruth or no Ruth. It is no secret that Joe and the Babe are not exactly pals.

Neither Ruppert or anyone else can blame McCarthy for the Yankees' failure to win the pennant last year. The Babe's decline was one factor but the club as a whole was riddled by injuries and handicapped by the sudden lapsing in effectiveness of several pitching stars.

The magnificent work of Gomez and Gehrig prevented the team from sliding below second place. However, this didn't make Colonel Ruppert any happier.

If the Yankees fail to win the pennant this year, McCarthy is bound to be under heavy fire and Ruth may replace him. If they finish on top, the Babe can start shopping around again. There are two distinct viewpoints on the matter but it seems definite that Ruth damaged the prospects of achieving his main ambition when he rejected Ruppert's suggestion a year ago that he try his hand as a manager with the Newark Bears, No. 1 farm club of the Yankees.

This in itself was proof that the colonel had in mind the possibility that Ruth would make a better pilot, some day, for the Yankees. But he wanted something besides the Babe's popularity and playing record to go on.

Ruth, on the other hand, insisted there was nothing he could learn about baseball by going back to the minors after 20 years in the big show.

It's a matter of prestige with Ruth now that when he steps out of the major, he also steps out of baseball. It's a matter of business with Ruppert that he won't consider changing Yankee managers as long as he has a leader, especially one with an excellent record, under contract.

It's a matter of fact that other major league managers are not eager to gamble with Ruth, now that his playing days are behind him. And it's a matter of necessity for Joe McCarthy to produce a winner.

Hornsby Thinks That Cleveland Should Win

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 25 (AP)—The Dean brothers, Mizz and Duffy, are, says Rogers Hornsby, "great fellows and great ball players, but they're got to prove that they can take it this year."

Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns, passed through here today on route from the baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark., to the Browns' training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

"The Browns are young," he said, "and they got lots of the publicity last year. If they can stand it—they are in for another good year. But you never know in this game—you're a hero today and a bum tomorrow."

Hornsby believes Cleveland will win the American League pennant because they've "gunch and defense power," and because "they are youngsters and can hustle."

More Snow Fell Here Saturday Afternoon

Superintendent Norton of Board of Public Works Had Snow Plows Out Early Saturday Night And They Worked Until 3 A. M. Sunday—Sander Kept Busy Until 11:30 Sunday Night.

The second snow storm of Saturday broke over the city about 2:30 o'clock that afternoon and continued until early evening. Superintendent Norton of the Board of Public Works started the snow plows to work at 6 o'clock Saturday evening and plowed the streets in the vicinity of the new armory where the Boy Scout rally was held that evening. When the streets in the vicinity of the armory had been plowed the work of plowing the other streets was taken up and the plows worked until 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Sunday proved an ideal day in Kingston and the sun during the afternoon melted what snow had fallen turning it into slush and as the temperature dropped toward night the slush began freezing and the city street sander was placed at work sanding down the dangerous hills and was kept at work until 11:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Saturday morning driving conditions in the city were dangerous as the hail that fell during the morning hours froze fast to the windshields of the automobiles, but with difficult driving conditions prevailing there were but few accidents reported, none of them resulting in serious injury to occupants of cars.

Religious School Meets Here Tonight

The second session of the standard international leadership school for church school workers will convene this evening in the Kingston High School at 7:30 o'clock. Oudemool, the Rev. J. Thoburn Legg and the Rev. Howard Dixon McGrath.

One after another, excuses for postponing business improvement melt away.

LEVY BY CRIME IS HEAVIEST U. S. TAX

Cost Is Three Times That of the Government.

New York.—Every one of the one hundred and twenty-five millions of people in these United States pays organized and unorganized crime the sum of 30 cents each and every day of the year.

Thirty cents from the new-born babe, or the oldest inhabitant, means thirty-seven millions, five hundred thousand dollars each day or a grand total of thirteen billions, six hundred and eighty-seven millions five hundred thousand dollars a year—three times the cost of the United States government and one and a third times more than the foreign nations owe us in war debts, writes Phelps Phelps in the Chicago Herald Examiner.

Criticizes Parents.
In the city of New York alone, there is an average of a half a million arrests each year for all classes of crime, but the most painful truth brought forth by police reports is that an average of forty thousand of those arrested is between the ages of sixteen and twenty years. More than one hundred thousand of the total are between twenty-one and twenty-five years of age, and in the face of these figures, supplied by former Police Commissioner Mulrooney, the present city administration has seen fit to abolish the highly necessary and efficiently-conducted crime prevention bureau of the police department.

The underlying cause of wholesale crime in this country can be traced to lack of parental training, brought to a disgraceful low during the decade or more of the "noble experiment." Slums and slum environment have a lot to do with starting the youngster on the downward path and latterly the wild teachings of disloyal and nitwit school officials have inoculated the rising generation with contempt for all laws and all authority whether official or parental.

Blames Politicians.
Of course, we all know it would have been utterly impossible for the crook army to openly defy authority, especially during the prohibition era, if politicians and officials were not hand in glove with them.

Years ago, I advocated centralizing the police of this country. All police departments in cities and towns of over 25,000 cost taxpayers a little over five hundred millions of dollars each year, but with the multiple form of government in each of the forty-eight states, with politicians ruling city, county and state police forces, it is a wonder things are not worse than they are.

The bar association should be the first organization in America to war upon crime by purging the ranks of a noble profession of the rats which seem to infest it in many parts of the country.

Judges are not innocent of helping crookdom war upon decent society. Many of our bench ornaments have been chosen for almost every quality save brains, and I might say the same thing of parole boards. Police, courts and parole boards must be entirely out of politics.

Huge Sequoia Named in Honor of General Lee

Kernville.—Gen. Robert E. Lee, the South's famous Civil war leader, recently had one of California's largest sequoia trees named for him.

The Gen. Robert E. Lee tree is the largest of a newly re-discovered grove of redwoods on the upper reaches of the Kern river, in an isolated canyon. It has a circumference of 108 feet and a height of 150 feet. The tree originally was much higher, but in some manner was broken off at the 150-foot mark.

The grove in which the Lee tree stands was discovered by white men more than fifty years ago, and then was lost until recently, when hunters "re-discovered" it.

The canyon in which it stands is so deep and the surrounding terrain so rugged that, national park officials say, it would be possible to pass within 200 yards of the grove and never see it. The site can be reached only by horse or foot.

Think Recent Drouths May Be Due to Glaciers

Vancouver, B. C.—The theory that the serious drouths in Canada and the United States are caused by the recession of glaciers in the Canadian north-west and Alaska is being studied here by a committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. The scientists have discovered that warm winds from the Pacific are demolishing great ice sheets before they can pass through southern British Columbia to drop their moisture in rain on the Canadian and United States prairies. Formerly the warm winds were diverted by ice fields in the North.

General Code Possible For 5 Million Men

Washington, Feb. 25 (P)—While controversy over NRA's future continued, an authoritative source disclosed today that Blue Eagle officials are tentatively considering bringing the service trades under the general retail code.

These trades employ 5,000,000 barbers, bootblacks, restaurant employees, pants pressers and other such workers.

After months of puzzling, certain recovery chiefs were said to have hit upon the retail code idea as a means of solving a long-pending problem of enforcing wage and hour provisions in these small businesses definitely not engaged in interstate commerce.

It was disclosed today that some officials believed the barber and beauty shops, dyers and cleaners and other trades could be linked to the retail code because almost all sell preparations in addition to the services rendered.

A definite decision to move to bring these businesses under the big code has not yet been made so far as is known.

The latest development in the debate over NRA was a statement last night by Senator Borah (R., Idaho) who had urged that the new law be made flexible enough to allow a distinction between kinds of trusts.

Borah said "you may just as well talk about good kidnappers and bad kidnappers" as good trusts and bad trusts. Declaring small businesses are being decimated, he called for strict enforcement of law against monopoly.

Huey Long Returns To Baton Rouge Today

New Orleans, Feb. 25 (P)—Surrounded by body guards, Senator Huey P. Long arrived in New Orleans by train from Washington and took an automobile immediately for Baton Rouge, where martial law has been in force for about a month due to the fight his enemies have been waging on his political leadership.

The Senator, as counsel for the Louisiana public service commission, said he was resuming today his investigation of telephone rates before the Louisiana public service commission in the Capital City.

In the midst of more than a score of attendants, Long walked hurriedly from his train in the railroad station to his automobile, which was parked close by in the center of a line of six cars.

When he left the train his army of bodyguards surrounded him and no one was permitted to speak to him. Some of the attendants of the Senator held their hands to their pockets as they rushed Long across the station platform to the line of automobiles. Long and his guards filled the car and the motor caravan sped away.

The Rev. Gerald K. Smith, organizer of Long's "share-in-the-wealth" clubs, arrived on the same train with the Senator but Smith left the station in a different direction.

Jimmy Walker Tells Court He's Flat Broke

London, Feb. 25 (P)—Jimmy Walker, with lots of bills due but unpayable, told a Chancery court today how he once made a $25,000 salary as mayor of New York, got $10,000 of it for his very own, and is now reduced to $5,000 of which he pays out 40 per cent.

He described this financial maze in answering two summonses for American companies which are trying to collect bills.

He testified that his movie actress wife, the former Miss Betty Compton, financed this honeymoon and a recent trip to Spain.

"I can make no offer at this time," Walker said, replying to questioning by counsel for Sommers, Inc., who with the East 65 Street Corporation brought the action.

"I have no means," he added.

Walker said that during his recent tour of the continent with his wife, the former Betty Compton, stage actress, Miss Compton paid the bills.

"During the time you were mayor of New York," the Sommers' attorney asked, "you were possessed of considerable wealth?"

"No," Walker replied. "I had a salary of $25,000 a year, over $15,000 of which was given to my then wife, who caused these debts."

"Who paid for that?" the attorney asked, referring to the European trip, which Walker said was taken because of his wife's health.

"Mrs. Walker bought the tickets and paid the expenses," the former mayor replied.

Walker explained that part of the 65th Street Corporation bill (representing an account at the Mayfair Hotel, New York) is in dispute "with some money owing to this hotel from me."
